Students of the Month - October 2019 - Principled

Grade	Student	Reason
6th Orange	Supriana Domen Tavares	Supriana consistently acts with integrity and honesty. She is kind and helpful toward staff and students, going out of her way to lend a helping hand. Supriana is thoughtful and considerate; she exemplifies what it means to be a Principled individual.
6th White	Lauren Fly	Lauren works hard at everything she does and asks excellent questions that push her and her classmates' learning to a deeper level. She treats everyone around her with respect and is a model Raindevil in her daily actions.
6th Yellow	Mason Hartung	Mason is the definition of a principled student at Cedar Heights. From the moment he walked onto campus, Mason demonstrated his ability to do the right thing even when the right thing is the hard thing to do. He consistently sets the bar high for himself and for others around him.
6th Blue	Sha'Myiah Mills	Sha'Myiah is a quiet role-model in class. She is always on task, participating in class discussion, and helping create a positive classroom environment.

6th Black	Mayzie Jones	Mayzie Jones exemplifies the qualities of a principled learner every day at Cedar. She is always prepared for class, and she behaves in a positive manner toward her teachers and her classmates. Mayzie is a student who does the right thing without being asked and even if no one is watching. She is kind, respectful, conscientious, and fair. In all ways, Mayzie is a delightful person and a principled student.
7th White	Joseph Pangelinan	Joseph is a principled student because he is always accountable for doing what is asked. He respects and is respected by his peers. He sets a great example of classroom behavior.
7th Orange	Madison Bonilla	Madison Bonilla is respectful to students and teachers. One time she was having difficulty working with a disruptive student. She discussed the issue with the teacher and eventually the student in private. She was careful to identify the distracting behaviors and remained respectful to her peer. She comes in early to receive extra help or to just help out! Madison stands out as a principled student because of how hard she works. Even though she is busy outside of school she prioritizes her school work. She models doing the right thing rather than just saying it.
8th Orange	Elissa Hong	Elissa lives with integrity. She works hard in class, treats everyone with respect, can be trusted to be on task and focused in class, and is helpful. Elissa is a quiet leader; not only does she do what she needs to in class, she also guides other students to do the same. Elissa treats all students in class as equals and is always someone who can be counted on when needed by students and teachers alike.

8th White	Jordan Gatlin	Jordan tackles school with an extreme zest for fairness. She is respectful and responsibile, not only with herself but with her peers as well. Jordan treats all students with dignity no matter who she interacts with. She has the confidence to ask teachers questions for clarification. Jordan uses her class time wisely, always acting with integrity and honesty. She takes responsibility for her learning and completes assignments early. She is a go-to student for all school issues.
